ELEVEN YEARS LATER

AN INCIDENT OF GETTYSBURG HAS A PLEASANT SEQUEL.

General Gordon Thought He Had Left General Barlow to Die on the Battlefield in 1863, but They Met Again in Washington in 1874—Saved by a Devoted Wife.

The advance of the Confederate line of battle commenced early on the morning of July 1, 1863, at Gettysburg. The infantry division commanded by Major General John B. Gordon of Georgia was among the first to attack. Its objective point was the left of the Second corps of the Union army. The daring commander of that corps occupied a position so far advanced beyond the main line of the Federal army that while it invited attack, it placed him beyond the reach of ready support when the crisis of battle came to him in the rush of charging lines more extended than his own. The Confederate advance was steady, and it was bravely met by the Union troops, who for the first time found themselves engaged in battle on the soil of the north, which until then had been virgin to the war. It was a "far cry" from Richmond to Gettysburg, yet Lee was in their front, and they seemed resolved to welcome their southern visitors "with bloody hands to hospitable graves." But the Federal flanks rested in air, and being turned its line was badly broken, and despite its brave and resolute defense against the well ordered attack of the Confederate veterans it was forced to fall back.

Gordon's division was in motion at a double quick to seize and hold the range ground in his front, from which the opposing line had retreated, when he saw directly in his path the apparently dead body of a Union officer. He checked his horse and then observed from the motion of the eyes and lips that the officer was still living. He at once dismounted, and seeing that the head of his wounded foe was lying in a depression in the ground placed under it a nearby knapsack. While raising him at the shoulders for that purpose he saw that the blood was trickling from a bullet hole in the back, and then he knew that the officer had been shot through the breast. He then gave him a drink from a flask of brandy and water, and as he revived said, bending over him: "I am very sorry to see you in this condition. I am General Gordon. Please tell me who you are. I wish to aid you all I can."

The answer came in feeble tones: "Thank you, general. I am Brigadier General Barlow of New York. You can do nothing more for me. I am dying." Then, after a pause, he said: "Yes, you can. My wife is at the headquarters of General Meade. If you survive the battle, please let her know that I died doing my duty."

General Gordon replied: "Your message, if I live, shall surely be given to your wife. Can I do nothing more for you?"

After a brief pause General Barlow responded: "May God bless you! Only one thing more. Feel in the breast pocket of my coat—the left breast—and take out a packet of letters." As General Gordon unbuttoned the blood-soaked coat and took out the packet the seemingly dying soldier said: "Now, please take out one and read it to me. They are from my wife. I wish that her words shall be the last I hear in this world."

Resting on one knee at his side, General Gordon, in clear tones, but with tearful eyes, read the letter. As the reading of the letter ended, General Barlow said: "Thank you. Now, please tear them all up. I would not have them read by others."

General Gordon tore them into fragments and scattered them on the field, "shot down and bladed thick with steel." Then, pressing General Barlow's hand, General Gordon bade him goodbye, and mounting his horse quickly joined his command.

He hastily penned a note on the pocket of his saddle, giving General Barlow's message to his wife, but stated that he was still living, though seriously wounded, and informing her where he lay. Addressing the note to "Mrs. General Barlow, at General Meade's headquarters," he handed it to one of his staff and told him to place a white handkerchief upon his sword and ride at a gallop toward the enemy's line and deliver the note to Mrs. Barlow. The officer promptly obeyed the order. He was not fired upon, and on being met by a Union officer, who advanced for that purpose, the note was received and read, with the assurance that it should be delivered instantly.

Let us turn from Gettysburg to the capital at Washington where, 11 years later, General Gordon held an appointment as senator of the United States and was present at a dinner party given by Orlando B. Potter, a representative in congress from the state of New York. Upon Mr. Potter's introducing to him a gentleman with the title of General Barlow, General Gordon remarked: "Are you a relative of the General Barlow, a gallant soldier, who was killed at Gettysburg?"

The answer was, "I am the General Barlow who was killed at Gettysburg, and you are the General Gordon who succeeded me!"

The meeting was worthy of two such brave men—every inch American soldiers.

I should add that on receiving her husband's note, which had been speedily delivered, Mrs. Barlow hastened to the field, though not without danger to her person, for the battle was still in progress. She soon found her husband and had him borne to where he could receive surgical attendance.

Through her devoted ministrations he was enabled to resume his command of the "Excelsior brigade" and add to the splendid reputation which it had achieved under General Sickles, its first commander.—New Haven Register.

SILVER ABOVE PARTY.

At the conference of silver men just closed at Washington the question of organizing a new party was favored by some of the delegates. The new party was to make the money question the sole issue, but it was to leave the way open for affiliation not only with the People's party, but for the six millions of citizens who refused to vote at the late elections. It was finally agreed that the policy for the ensuing Congressional elections should be:

"The first battle is for the next Congress."

"The money question is and will continue to be the paramount issue till rightly settled, and can be displaced by no other."

"To achieve results, silver men must not only remain silver men after they reach Congress, but must put silver above party and work incessantly to accomplish the object for which they were selected."

The conference, which was composed of silver men such as Stewart and Jones of Nevada, Weaver of Iowa, Warner of Ohio and Bland of Missouri, urgently suggests to the friends of silver that they support for the Fifty-fourth Congress only candidates who will pledge themselves to participate in no caucus which might restrain them from voting in accordance with the above mentioned pledges, but unite with others favoring free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 and the issue of paper money by the Government, and to oppose the issue of bonds to buy gold.

The conference also recommends the organization of silver leagues everywhere with a view of controlling the election of members of Congress and State Legislatures, and that two silver conventions be held during the winter one in the North and the other in the South.

This movement is in line with the principles of the Silver party of Nevada. It makes the remonetization of silver the paramount issue and places free coinage above party. It is endorsed by the leading silver advocates of the country. It disposes of that nonsensical idea that a man could be true to the silver cause by advocating free coinage among his constituents and participating in party caucuses dominated by goldbugs at Washington. As well attempt to serve God and Mammon at the same time. The feat is impossible. No one should be elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress or to a State Legislature that might be called upon to elect a United States Senator who is not fully in accord with the silver movement and a firm advocate of the principle of "free coinage before party."

CONGRESS AND ANNEXATION.

Congress is expected to adjourn tomorrow until January 4th. The tariff bill will probably be reported before the holiday recess, but the debate will not begin until after the holidays. The Statehood bills will not be considered by the Senate Committee on Territories until January.

It is said to be quite certain that an effort will be made in the Senate to unite Utah with Nevada, but if Senators Jones and Stewart are opposed to the proposition such a bill cannot pass the Senate. However, should a bill ceding Utah to Nevada pass both Houses and receive the approval of the President the people of Nevada must consent to the union before it can be consummated.

The goldbug element at Washington fears the admission of four new States—Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Utah—all favorable to free coinage, as it would give the silver men eight more Senators, and they may attempt to lessen the number by annexing Utah to Nevada.

A POPULIST MAYOR.

Mayor Fingree of Detroit was elected on the Populist ticket. The Republicans claimed Fingree and invited him to a justification meeting. He declined on the ground that he did not affiliate with that party, and in a speech used this language:

"I am not against corporations simply as corporations. It is when they become public monopolies that I fight them, and I will fight to the death. I hate my life has put of commercial men, Andersonville prison for over six months because I believed that all men were born equal, and I can do it again if it will give us equal rights to all—special privileges to none."

The fact that a Populist Mayor was elected by 6,000 majority in the metropolis of Michigan was kept out of all press dispatches and goldbug newspapers shows the power of the gold trust. The Populists advocate free coinage, and because they do so now that is favorable to them is suppressed.

The President yesterday nominated Wayne MacVeagh of Pennsylvania Ambassador to Italy, vice J. J. Van Allen, who declined the position. Mr. MacVeagh was a member of President Garfield's Cabinet, having been appointed Attorney General March 5, 1881. He declared for tariff reform in the last Presidential campaign, and advocated the election of Cleveland.

COLONEL JOHN P. IRISH has been nominated for Naval Officer at the port of San Francisco. The Examiner's opposition to the Colonel did not count.

The American Federation of Labor, in session at Chicago, passed a resolution recommending the passage of a free coinage bill by Congress on the basis of 16 to 1.

THE TARIFF.

Majority Report of the Committee on Ways and Means.

WASHINGTON, December 19.—The report of the Committee on Ways and Means on the Wilson tariff bill was submitted to the House. It says:

"The American people, after a full and most thorough debate ever given by a people to their fiscal policy, deliberately and rightfully decided the existing tariff wrong in principle and grievously unjust in operation. They decided that free men must always decide that the power of taxation has no lawful or constitutional exercise except for providing revenue for the support of the Government. Every departure from this principle is a departure from the fundamental principles of free institutions, and inevitably works out a gross inequality in the citizenship of the country. For more than thirty years we have levied the largest part of our Federal taxes in violation of this vital truth, until we have reached the existing tariff, and an extreme and voluminous system of class taxation to which history may be challenged to furnish a parallel. So many private enterprises have been taken into partnership with the Government, so many private interests now share in the rich prerogative of taxing 70,000,000 people, that any attempt to dissolve this illegal union is necessarily encountered by the opposition that rallies behind the intolerance of monopoly, the power of concentrated wealth, the inertia of fixed habits and the honest errors of a generation of false teaching."

"The bill on which the committee has expended so much patient and anxious labor is not offered as a complete response to the mandate of the American people. It no more professes to be purged of all protection than to be free from all errors in its complex manifold details. However we may deny the existence of any legislative pledge, or of the right of any Congress to make such pledges for the continuance of duties that carry with them more or less acknowledged protection, we must recognize that great interests do exist whose existence and prosperity it is part of our reform either to imperil or curtail. We believe, and have the warrant of our own past experience for believing, the reduction of duties will not injure, but will give more abundant life to all our great manufacturing industries, however much they may dread the change."

In dealing with the tariff question, as with every other long-standing abuse that has interwoven itself with our social or industrial system, the legislator must always remember that in the beginning temperate reform is the safest, having in itself the principle of growth. A glance at the tariff legislation of our country ought to satisfy every intelligent student that protection has always shown its falsity as a system of economy by its absolute failure to bring healthy and stable prosperity to manufacturers. It teaches men to depend on artificial help, on laws taxing their countrymen for prosperity in business, rather than upon their own skill and effort. It throws business from its natural channel into an artificial channel in which there must always be fluctuation and uncertainty, and makes the tariff system a football of party politics, and the stability of large business interests the stage of every popular election. None have recognized this more fully than men who have from time to time engaged in the so-called protected industries."

The report deals at large with the tariff history of the country, showing that when it was first proposed the manufacturers opposed it and desired to be let alone, but once in power the protected industry asked for more and more protection. Finally came the revolution of 1840, when the tariff was reduced against the protests of the manufacturers, who claimed it would ruin them, and against the solid vote of the manufacturing States in Congress. The result of that low tariff was a development of great vigor in manufactures, with steady employment and increasing wages for labor. After eleven years' trial the representatives of those same States with practical unanimity voted for a further reduction of 20 per cent., and by a two-thirds vote sustained a 25 per cent. reduction under the tariff of 1857. The people were so well satisfied with it that there was a protest against the Morrill bill of 1861, increasing duties.

The report quotes from a number of speeches in Congress made against the Morrill bill, among them one by Sherman of Ohio. Under Republican auspices there has been a constant increase in duties at the demand of manufacturers.

The report declares the reciprocity clause of the tariff act of 1890 has brought no appreciable benefits, and the bill aims therefore to repeal it entirely. The report is signed by the Democratic members of the committee. The Republican members will hereafter submit a minority report attacking the Wilson bill and the majority report.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTION.

Governor Lee Charges Corruption.

RICHMOND, Va., December 19.—In the Senatorial investigation ex-Governor Lee, one of the candidates, was on the witness stand and told what he had heard about the use of money by railroads in the interest of Mr. Martin. He declared that he was now actuated by no personal motive whatever, as he would not again be a candidate, even if the Legislature were to throw up the present nominee—Mr. Martin—and again go into caucus for Senators.

The new Senator, who will be elected by the General Assembly to-morrow, voluntarily went upon the stand amid the wildest sort of enthusiasm, and swore that he had never been in sympathy with any scheme to influence any member of the House of Delegates or Senate, or either of these branches of the Legislature, as far as their votes for Senator was concerned. He was cheered from the time he began his statement until he finished, and it was impossible to preserve order while he was on the stand.

In the course of his evidence, General Lee gave a list of his collections for the Virginia campaign fund in the recent election. The most prominent name on the list was that of Grover Cleveland, who subscribed $1,000 to carry the Democrats to victory in the Old Dominion.

At Santa Ana, Cal., yesterday, Q. G. Marks, formerly a member of the Board of Education of that city, was arrested for embezzlement, being accused of appropriating $125 to his own use placed in his hands as Secretary of the Board to pay the fire insurance.

The President yesterday sent the following nominations to the Senate: Wayne MacVeagh of Pennsylvania, Ambassador to Italy; John P. Irish of California, Naval Officer at San Francisco, and James H. Forney of Idaho, U. S. Attorney for Idaho.

Captain Baker, the American commander of the Brazilian warship Niteroi, has been superseded by Captain Alvaro Nunez. The change is not relished by the Americans on board, but it is thought that most of them, who alone are able to manipulate the rapid fire guns will continue in the service.

The Sacramento Bee, a straight-out Republican paper, approves the President's course on the Hawaiian question. It says the message is punctuated with facts from beginning to end, and proves the annexation project was a boodle scheme, engineered by Hessian politicians in the interest of American capitalists.

SENATOR VANCE said in a recent speech to his constituents in North Carolina, that the greater part of the Democratic party will deliberately walk out of itself, leaving nothing behind but a smell of trimstone and Wall Street.

Saved Her Life.

Mr. C. J. Woodman of Northham, N. H., saved the life of his child by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The child was a little girl, and was afflicted with a severe cold, and was unable to breathe. The mother tried every remedy, but the child was fast dying. She then gave her a little of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and the child was cured. The mother writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for many years, and it has saved me and my children many times. I do not know of any other remedy so good."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.
